Professor Prichard -

I will send a more detailed letter of complaint to your board members.

A few years ago I complained about the poor sampling method and subjective arguments used by Donna Stewart in work that has been used to justify abuses against persons disabled by environmental sensitivities.

Abuses based on her work have contributed to financial damages, increased disability, and several suicides.

Now her proferssed disciple, Susan Abbey, is on the loose. AEHA members are outraged by her promotion of abuse against us.

Like other freedoms, academic freedom is precious. It is not as precious as human lives, human dignity, and freedom from arbitrary interference.

Sincerely,

CB
